Report

A guest lecture is arranged by ACET-R&D Cell on 2nd November, 2023 from 5.00 PM to 6:00 PM at Visvesvaraya Bhavan Seminar Hall (Ground Floor). Prof Narahari has delivered a Online lecture on “How to Write Research Proposal for Funding”. The doctorates and research scholars attended this program to enhance their knowledge of research funding.

He started the presentation, instructed every researcher explained all steps mentioned here: also demonstrated sample-filled funding proposals to the audience and explained each and every heading/field. He also discussed reasons for rejecting the proposals.

At the end of the session, a few faculty members interacted with him and clarified their doubts.

He gives assurance to associate with ACET in future, reviews the research proposals written by faculty, and gives suggestions for improvement.

Overall Feedback from Faculty

Faculty provided feedback to the resource person about writing research funding proposals. He explained the relevance of the research funding proposals' content process and presented drafted sample proposals. The staff members are very well motivated. Finally, this guest lecture is more valuable to doctorates and research scholars who submit research proposals to funding agencies.

Remarks from Resource Person

Prof. Narahari was satisfied with the well-organized event and interaction from the R&D department. He was also enthusiastic about the faculty's interest in writing the research funding proposals.
